

Indiana's no call law works very well. I recommend the FCC adapt Indiana's regulations. If not, PLEASE do not preempt Indiana's high standard with a lessor regulation as frequently been done in the past. Our junk calls are way down. We don't like the idea of increase phone junk.

The EPA allows California to have a higher standard for car exhaust emissions. Unless your regulation matches the level of Indiana, please allow us to maintain the same level of protection as we have now.

Sincerely: Paul A. Myers
